

7521127989.txt

I am a supporter of the free and open internet. Please do not let ISPs selectively throttle websites as they wish. To allow such a practice would stifle open competition on the internet. The internet is a utility, a tool of the masses, used for making information easily available and publishable. Do not let ISPs utilize paid prioritization. It would mean the death of the open internet otherwise.