

7521128337.txt

The FCC should reclassify broadband providers as common carriers under Title II. This would protect the internet and consumer choice and would promote innovation and competition.