

7521130611.txt

reclassifying broadband Internet access as a telecommunications service

The internet needs to be reclassified as a telecommunications service. Comcast, AT&T, Time Warner have done nothing to protect the rights of the people who are paying them service. Rather, the "pseudo-monopoly" has provided the US with the highest price per month of internet data - with almost the slowest MBS download speed.

<http://blogs.reuters.com/felix-salmon/2014/02/17/monopolizing-bandwidth/>

There is no argument to be made that these companies are doing anything in the interest of the people who are paying them.

It's time to reclassify the internet as a telco service - and catch up to the rest of the world on price and speed.