

7521131561.txt

Net neutrality is important for many reasons. ISPs should not have the right to choose what does or does not come through to the customer, based on any criteria. It effectively blocks freedom of speech for those out there that cannot pay extra to ISPs to have their information delivered. ISPs should be regulated as Common Carriers and required to provide an equal level of service to all.