What I want to make sure is that we can get the services we (consumers) pay for delivered without restriction and without additional payment at or above a guaranteed speed. If this means that broadband providers need to be classified as common carriers under Title II, then so be it. The government (Federal/State/Local) is responsible for creating the monopolies that have caused this situation so they need to provide the solutions that protect consumers and businesses until such time competition can enter the market place. So many times well meaning individuals in both public and private arenas strive to fix problems and, because of unintended consequences, make matters worse.
