

7521133654.txt

The internet should be reclassified as an utility. It is a more important communication tool than the telephone and should be protected from any pay-to-play manipulation.

This is also an important test for the FCC, as there seems to be a particularly disturbing conflict of interest in the relationships between FCC and Tel Co employees.

Do the right thing. Keep the internet a level playing field.

Thank you.