I dont think corporate money is a representation of the people. Every single one of you in government get paid too much anyways to simply apply reason and sense to everything that you deal with. Setting up the internet for fast lanes and restricting it is unreasonable and has to benefit to the public. Please reconsider the decision made on 5/15/2014 and I rise in support of reclassification of internet service providers under Title II entities. None of this is hard, considering these things, inside, for months, over yes or no, is not difficult, you even have help from every one, the people, your purpose.
