

7521139598.txt

Please consider the ramifications of taking away the neutrality of internet access beyond just the dollars that will go to the ISPs. This is just the beginning of a path that will effectively lead to censorship of information, something that we as Americans detest. There is already so little competition that these ISPs deal with, and to give them the power over what information we can access? Stop and think, and do the right thing.