As a citizen of the United States, I find this attempt at regulating access and control to the greatest storehouse of information ever available to man to be anti-Constitutional and anti-democratic. Secretary of State John Kerry recently declared access to the internet to be a fundamental right. If we bend to the will of the corporations who seek to ultimately profit from a non-neutral internet, then the conversion of the United States as a government for the people and by the people will be complete. I urge you to consider the long term effects such a decision will have on future generations.
