

FCC:

Have you ever played Monopoly and lost? It sucks. And even when you win, you might feel super powerful, BUT you don't have any friends left and no one wants to talk to you. Good thing that is just a game.

I am against this proposed act. Besides all the legal mumbo jumbo that you have hid behind and let companies like Verizon, Comcast, etc. get away with overcharging its customers for crappy, regulated service, you must be blinded by BS and not by the veil of justice.

I SHOULD have the freedom/option to choose what company provides me with internet service. That company should also provide me with unrestricted access to the entire internet, NOT what they deem as more important. Year after year the same old song gets played over all media about the "deals" the ISPs have and I am tired of it. NOTHING is new! NO NEW company has been able to come out and COMPETE in the OPEN MARKET because, well, it's not open. The FCC has allowed the cancerous communication companies to get us, the consumer, by the balls. Let me choose who gets to touch my balls.

With all due respect, don't be a dick,

Camren Beattie
5681 Fieldcrest Dr
Camarillo, CA 93012