

Internet neutrality is very important to all the people of the United States. There should be no discrimination for the people who provide information or for people who receive information. Providing a fast lane to some will cause others to be discriminated against by being forced into the slow lane.

This will hinder people who cannot afford the fast lane and also prevent or hinder new Internet business from thriving.

The Internet should be left open as is or be regulated as a public utility. No more discrimination against the people to benefit corporations and the wealthy.

Thank you, Karen Conway