

We already have to pay an internet bill, why tack even more onto us? Don't give even more power to greedy corporations at the cost of the betterment of the general populace. Who does this help? Corporations, who already have too much power, seeking to monopolize the internet even further, are the only ones who will gain from this. And they will only come back asking for more and more. This only further hurts smaller websites and companies as the big business sites eat up the good bandwidth. Please see and understand that this is a very bad thing for the nation and the internet, and act wisely. Please keep net neutrality alive.
