

Internet.

Internet should be used as a tool(s) and communications. In order to advance in the world of technology, education, science, entertainment and other things, we need the internet to be free and open.

There can be many example to provide but let's make it simple. I walk to the library and pick up a book, for education reason. But when I go to a website such as the archive.org (non-profit, digital library) I would be blocked by your new system that may be implemented. How can education or anything be better for the future if you create these gates or barriers?

If you keep the internet free and open, not only will we achieve better in technology, but it can allow every human to benefit the growing world of information age.

In the end, if you keep the internet free and open, things will end up being better on your side believe it or not.
