The FCC should reconsider the net neutrality issue. We ought to have the best possible options as consumers in the US. There is no reason why ISPs cannot operate as telecommunications company that are regulated for the benefit of the people. We need a more firm net neutrality law from the FCC, it's clear that this is what the majority want. The proposed regulation is anti-competitive and does not benefit the average US citizen. Please revise it in order to further regulate ISPs for fair internet usage!
