As a TWC customer and former Comcast customer, this seems like the worst of both worlds. The bad customer service of TWC and the bad cable service of Comcast, combined to give more market power to the worst of the cable companies, allowing the resulting monster to keep alternatives out of the hands of Consumers, exclude cities from influence over service levels, suppress innovation, and to even more easily manipulate the availability of content and the government itself. These companies are already too big, and should be broken up, not allowed to combine.

This merger is a clear violation of anti-trust laws and the public interest. It must be denied by the FCC.
