I live in a rural area and am trying to start a company. I am having a difficult time because there is no high speed internet service available. This is handicapping me and the potential of hiring other people. We need competition. CenturyLink is the only provider of phone and internet in my area. Since they are charging me $64.36 for one phone line, they have little incentive to provide internet service that could eliminate this ridiculously high phone charge. HughesNet is not a replacement for high speed internet.
