

To Whom It May Concern:

I am requesting that the FCC reclassifies Internet Service Providers As Title II Common Carriers.

I am requesting this in light of the fact that I understand that a lot of ISP's have bills that need to be paid, and so do us...common folk as well. Some of us, like myself, are on a fixed income and only afford so much to pay on our bills each month, and we don't like feeling like we have to barter or haggle our ISP's for better rates and speeds. Most of us feel that we should all be getting the same speed for the same rate that we pay for each and every month.

The Internet is a great and wondrous tool, that shouldn't be squandered and left in the hands of those that can afford larger rate hikes, and for those of us that are currently trying to make a living using our services, and selling our goods...we feel that the FCC, is hindering a chance for us to chase our own American Dream, that our ancestor's came to this country, seeking.

If the FCC, continues down this path; it will ruin the Internet as we know it and make it impossible for people in areas that are much like rural and farming communities unable to sell their products to much larger investors, in hopes of being able to expand their own operations, and be able to continue to live comfortably, as they had been for generations.

You see, the Internet is more than just a tool for business; it's also a source of entertainment; a meeting place for friends and family that can't be there, physically; a place for ideas to be exchanged around the world over.

Thank you,
