

7521153335.txt

I already pay to use the internet monthly, as long as i cause no harm to another it is my service to use as i see fit without being penalized extra money because i want to use the service i already purchased, destroying net neutrality is nothing less than a crime against the users of said service, and will lead to mass cancellation of service due to violation of the eighth amendment, which this clearly qualifies under.

The Eighth Amendment (Amendment VIII) to the United States Constitution is the part of the United States Bill of Rights (ratified December 15, 1791[1]) prohibiting the federal government from imposing excessive bail, excessive fines or cruel and unusual punishments, including torture.