

7521153988.txt

Hi I would like to start off my saying dont do this it is a horrible idea. As I'm sure you are well aware everyone uses the Internet on a daily basis. Everyone from your average joe to businesses small and big alike. People already pay to much for Internet service as it is. What you are proposing is not going to help anything or anyone, besides of course the Internet providers, it won't increase Internet speeds, it won't do anything but make it next to impossible for small business to operate in this day and age. Even big multi billion dollar business will be hurt by this and if big businesses will be hurt by this then I don't even know what the average American will do. Making us pay more to go online is wrong, it's greedy, and it goes against everything the Internet was made for in the first place. The Internet was intended to be an open source. A place where you could look at anything, watch anything, and say anything you wanted to. Regulating the Internet like you propose is unamerican and it goes also goes against what this country was founded on the freedom of speech. We carn't go out and speak our minds anymore so the only thing we have left to do so is the Internet and by regulating it like this takes that away from us. My problems with how the government has been acting lately goes far beyond this issue but I may have sat idley by and let those other questionable activities go but this one I shall not. I have the right to voice my opinion and now I'm expressing said opinion Do. Not. Kill. Net. Neutrality. It will ruin everything.