

7521154045.txt

Although I have two high speed internet providers, it appears they are conspiring to manipulate the pricing. There really is no competition in most areas of the U.S. They charge outrageous rates for internet service and want to charge even more if use too much data. Now they want to charge the content providers to use their cables and the costs will be passed on the the consumer.

The internet providers should be regulated as utilities