

7521154544.txt

I am very concerned that the failure to maintain true net neutrality will lead to a few major corporations having the power to dictate what we can and cannot see merely by adjusting data transmission speeds.

There is no reason to believe that in addition to manipulating content based on profit, the ISPs will not also eventually get around to manipulating access to political discourse they do not agree with or more likely, selling the power to do so to the highest bidder.