Ironically, it took me over 20 minutes to load this page due to Comcast's current "high speed" or fast lane internet. I filed a formal complaint about what cunts they are, and how they supposedly offer such high speeds currently. Funny thing, I have only enjoyed speeds 1/10th advertised and paid for. If you honestly believe the giant line of horseshit the lobbyists have tried to pull, then this organization has no business existing. I'm being generous, because it can be easily discerned that any move in this direction is off the fat cancerous tits of these companies. Please note my concern, and either do the right thing, by dismantling these monopolies, or continue to let them fuck us all in the ass like a bunch of perceived lap dog assholes.
