

7521155888.txt

I have ComCast internet service. However, I do not want ComCast service. I have Verizon wireless service. Once again, I do not want Verizon Wireless service. These are my only choices in Indianapolis, a city of a million people! So, why must the FCC now feel the need to FORCE every internet user in America into a PARASITIC RELATIONSHIP with North Korean internet speeds (because North Koreans do not have the internet), dungeon torture (aka. ComCast customer service), and fucking virtual serfdom? Why must we be bound to tending virtual fields of infinite shit? We do not. Keep the net neutral and open.