

7521156815.txt

If it is not broke why fix it?

The current net neutrality practice of the Internet has allowed competition to flourish and amazing value to be added to our economy. A multilayered approach for Internet data access will only serve a segment of our population and will not serve the greater good. I urge the FCC to reject attempts to change the current net neutrality regime.