

7521157382.txt

The internet must stay open and unbiased without corporate control or censorship. To do so would destroy the one major resource for news and education without company persuasion. Dont make people have to weed through the filth of major news sources like CNN twitter responses and FOX drama reenactments to find sparkles of whats actually happening. Offering packages for websites and blocking websites that dont meet the corporate status will without a doubt spark massive protests. if you allow that to go through then fuck you