

7521161171.txt

Please do NOT alter the current net neutrality regulations. I use the internet for both personal and business reasons. In my leisure time, I upload and download videos and photos with friends and family. As a business owner, I rely on a cost-effective, high-speed internet connection to transfer large files to and from clients and vendors. If you give in to pressure from the giant media corporations, they will impose restrictions on speed and services. They don't like to call it a "slow lane and fast lane" model. I believe they prefer to call it "High speed and hyperspeed." That's just corporate BS for what will be a tiered system; effectively turning the information superhighway into a toll road. Since we're in desperate need of growth in the small business arena, it makes zero sense to allow Comcast, Verizon, Time Warner, and other multibillion dollar corporations, to successfully lobby for additional advantages on what is SUPPOSED to be a level playing field. The middle class family cannot afford to make the media giants and their stockholders richer when we're trying to feed our children and pay our mortgages. The middle class business owner is already facing an uphill battle, so why, as his representatives, are you considering making it an even steeper hill? It's time to tell the corporations NO. They need to understand what this business owner understands: some year's you just don't make as much money as you did last year. Please PROTECT THE OPEN INTERNET.