

7521164772.txt

It seems that getting rid of net neutrality is gonna make it harder for smaller companies to have a web presence. It also seems like it's just gonna make it harder on content creators and consumers. The only ones who benefit are the service providers who deliver the content.