Regarding Net Neutrality, we must keep it, not create an uneven playing field to create even more monopolistic thievery than we already have. Putting a former lobbyist in charge of the FCC was a huge mistake, but you may prove me wrong by keeping net neutrality in place.

I have experienced those internet times when everything SLOWS DOWN and wondered what it could be. Ah, it's only to force me into spending a little more to get the same speed I used to have. Why do other countries have so much better service? And how is a two tiered (or three, or four) system going to help the small business startup or individual consumers. Answer: it won't. It would only help the big guy. How about supporting a truly equal playing field.
KEEP NET NEUTRALITY.
