

7521171380.txt

Allowing corporate entities like Time Warner and Comcast, who are already trying to monopolize the cable industry, to charge for a premium web "fast lane" would cause so much damage to free speech and the open internet I find it unconstitutional. The FCC should reconsider its ruling on Net Neutrality.