

7521171455.txt

Why isn't the Internet regulated in the same way that phone communications are classified and regulated and controlled. It should be the same type of treatment so that providers cannot charge differently for delivering the content and they cannot charge differently for maintaining those lines and exclusive control over those lines. Investigate big monopolies and break them up like make bell was. Net neutrality must be maintained encouraged protected.