

7521173048.txt

I believe the internet should be regulated as a UTILITY except in areas where there are more than 4 data pipes available in the market. There may be competition BETWEEN carriers, but once you're with a carrier, it seems like fair game for them to change policies whenever they feel like it. And if net neutrality is abolished, it will be consumers who will lose out -- which is exactly the folks who everybody says is supposed to BENEFIT from these changes.