Allowing virtual monopolies to control the speed of internet traffic would be very damaging to the American economy.

Small business is the key driver to a robust economic environment. Internet 'fast lanes' would allow the largest companies to gain competitive advantage, thereby hurting small businesses and creating irreparable damage to a free and open economic system

It would be a catastrophe for small business if you allow the internet 'fast lane'. This would create a huge barrier to entry for most markets.

Therefore we implore you not to allow the large ISP monopolies to exploit their market domination and create competitive disadvantage and hurdles to entry for small business.
