

7521180597.txt

There does not need to be even less options for cable broadband services. There are already regional monopolies in most areas, Atlanta included, where the ISPs have just agreed not to compete with each other forever reason. Add in the products already owned by Comcast, NBC, hulu, etc, and the increased market share they will get from TWC and this merger would be horrible for the American consumer.