

7521181886.txt

I don't believe the FCC fully understands the seriousness of the outcome to be if they start monopolizing the internet. The internet plays such a crucial piece in the better hood of mankind, by regulating and censoring data the FCC would be holding back the progress of the human race. People will not stand for this, especially in America. Look at the uproar from people when talks of taking away their guns are in the air, controlling peoples internet data is similar to tying one of their hands behind their back. The internet is an extension of all of us to share information, ideas and to communicate and learn. Stop while you can.