I am a 38 year-old American and I have been using the internet since the days of dial-up BBS and email "post offices."

The internet has always been about equal access to information and to allow monied interests to corrupt that is both against American values and sadly in line with much of what has happened in the last few decades.

Comcast, Verizon and Time-Warner already wield TREMENDOUS power and influence over the way tens of millions of Americans access information on a day-to-day basis. They've also each demonstrated harmful neglect to their customers on countless occasions. I cannot see how granting them further power in any way makes our country stronger or more free.
