Hello, in regards to net neutrality, I would like to direct your attention to a period of American history commonly called The Gilded Age. This was a period when monopolies were built and no greater disparity had ever been created between classes. It also contributed to the crash of 1929, which created the Great Depression.

Preserving the Internet in it's current state is one of the most pressing issues of our time in regards to a level playing field in our economy. I STRONGLY urge you to consider the implications of destabilizing one of the last level playing fields in our country and what that means for our society. I will provide you with a hint: It's NOT good.

As a citizen of this great nation, I implore you to use your good sense and not allow the hands of lobbyists in your pockets to direct your judgement. DO NOT allow the end of net neutrality. Instead, do the job you were appointed to and PROTECT IT.
