Please keep Net Neutrality. If richer corporations are able to be given higher internet speeds than other companies, it would completely destroy the idea of fair and free commerce and competition on the internet. Many of the United States biggest companies (Facebook, Youtube, Google) were products of a fair and even playing field on the internet. If you were to take that away from people it would just be another intrusion of corporations and greed destroying fair economic competition, which in the long-run if left unchecked will suffocate entrepreneurs, start up companies, and small businesses, contributing to the greater fall of our economy. Even worse is the fact that other countries WILL have Net Neutrality, further putting the United States at an extreme disadvantage when it comes to internet startups or attracting new businesses. Please stop bending to the wants of giant corporations and put the needs of your country's people first.
