

We need to preserve net neutrality. Otherwise it will be pretty clear that the government is trying to control access to information. And the revolving door between lobbyists and appointed or elected government positions has got to stop.