

7521268112.txt

Destroying net neutrality (in a form of refusing to assign ISP firms "common carrier" status as they logically and logistically should have) is a betrayal of principles of freedom. Besides the fact that it will hurt small and medium businesses, start-ups and average consumers, it will also affect freedom to receive information. It opens up a door for a complete abuse of power and control of information by select few ISPs who already enjoy a monopoly. Yet, citizens and consumers have a right to receive manipulated information.

A country that calls itself "The Land of the Free" cannot afford a betrayal of interests and freedom of its citizens, residents, entrepreneurs and consumers.

As an IT professional I have already seen the harm done to the industry by ISP firms becoming monopolies. This decision will push that harm to an unprecedented new level.

Please protect web neutrality.