Comcast is a group of money hungry bastards, and their every interaction with you should, at all costs, be stifled immediately for an infinite duration. They are preying and profiting on the public's need for information and any support for them or their causes is comparable to treason not only against citizens of the United States but also all future generations of the world who deserve a right to freedom of information. Supporting Comcast and other telecommunications not-quite-but-pretty-much-monopolies is objectively immoral and I sincerely hope you have the balls to stand up for us, yourselves and future generations. Have a nice day and thank you for your time.
