

7521278176.txt

I oppose any attempt to weaken net neutrality by permitting providers to sell faster speeds or special benefits to users. The internet must be available equally to all users, without special treatment based on cost, or status. As the engine of a global community, favoritism based on cost would violate a function that can have impact on that community.