Making it easier for companies to have increased access and speed while making access slower for everyone else is outrageous! The internet is not for sale and we do NOT agree to allowing corporations to create tiered usage the norm. Charging more money for better speed is the worst idea I've ever heard. IF this had been done when the internet first started maybe you could have gotten away with it. But now that people have been using the internet for years trying to tie up the speed and give big business more favorable deals so they can take our money more easily and make the internet slow down it just isn't going to happen without the BIGGEST protest this country has ever seen. The U.S. already has the worst internet in the world because of cable companies. The internet should be dealt with as a public utility NOT a pawn for big business. If I could only comment with one word it would be No. NO! NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!
