I support net neutrality and the open internet. Creating a multi-tiered system will further restrict the introduction of new and better ISPs. I am already very dissatisfied with comcast, but have literally no other option. It is possible better options may arrive (e.g. Google fiber), but the elimination of net neutrality will guarantee the continuation of the monopolistic mediocrity we have come to expect from ISPs. Highest prices for internet in the world coupled with some of the slowest speeds in the developed world is disgraceful for a country as technologically advanced as the US.
