

7521289359.txt

The internet is a common carrier utility, exactly like the telephone system, and should be regulated like the telephone system. Whether transferring digital voice, or data, it is handled the same way by the equipment and should be handled the same way by the regulators. No one has to pay more for making phone calls than another person, and content providers on the internet should not have to pay to have their content delivered.