I invented the internet back in 1989. Knowing what a wonderfully liberating gift this could be to the human race, I didn't patent it, I didn't sell it, I didn't control it in any way. now I hear some (insert profanity) in a suit wants to steel it off the very people I created it for. well I tell you this. the world wide web is not a resource, it's not to be plundered by the powerful, for the benefit of the few. you can not control it. you will be fort, and beaten. my self and many others like me would see the internet fall, before letting it slip into the hands of our greedy puppet masters.
