

7521306815.txt

The Internet I love has exponentially increased communications between people, known and unknown, enhanced thought processes among people, help expose unjust, undemocratic actions of the haves against the have nots, and...in the process...is leading to the prospects of global changes in leadership and ownership of resources.