

7521310190.txt

The internet is extremely important to me for both personal and work purposes. First it is very affordable given that it provides an invaluable research tool, provides limitless opportunities for education, social contact, entertainment, and a vehicle for communication with anyone, anywhere in the world. For the sake of our present as well as future generations, please maintain net neutrality and have all ISPs reclassified as common carriers. Thank you.