

7521314867.txt

I support net neutrality. Corporations already have too much power and destroying net neutrality would severely worsen this situation. Cable companies should not be able to hurt people's access to information in order to make even more money and large corporations should not be able to pay more to get their internet content to people. The average person is becoming more and more disenfranchised so that large corporations can benefit. This is terrible.