I am frustrated with Comcast and Verizon. I'm tired of dealing with these two huge companies, that charge more and more and deliver less and less, and I'm upset at not having any other choices. Monopolies arise because of barriers that are put in place to inhibit other companies from entering the market. I want my voice to be heard in an effort to promote fair competition for the benefit of all of us consumers! Protect Net Neutrality! It is time to do some trust busting, since Congress and the President are not doing it for us. Teddy Roosevelt fought to break up monopolies and protect the people, not the profit-driven, runaway corporations. It's high time this Administration did the same! Do something for the good of the people and not for greed. Competition is good for business; it shakes off complacency, leads to innovation, and results in improved customer service and dedication. Competition will make our economic structure stronger. Monopolies will weaken us; consumers will have less disposable income to spend as prices for these services rise, there will be no incentive for these companies to improve their services or quality, and as they gain more power they will want even more power and they will use their vast profits to gain control over you!
