

7521328442.txt

Verizon, for one, is more interested in gouging its customers than in providing fast service. There's no objective reason internet prices should be so high in this country and speeds so low.